

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Etch uniformity is improved in that a specified material layer to be etched is exposed to an ion beam so as to implant an ion species, wherein at least one implantation parameter is varied in conformity with local etch rates of the specified material layer. In this way, etch non-uniformities, induced by tool non-uniformities and recipe specific characteristics, may be significantly reduced.